RUSTY ZANDER WINS P.C. NOMINATION

Over 450 persons crowded the Elks Hall in Drayton Valley last Thursday evening for the first nomination meeting of the new Electoral Division of Drayton Valley that saw Rusty Zander of Tomahawk win the Progressive Conservative nomination for the next provincial election.

Mr. Zander was opposed by Drayton Valley Town Engineer Bill Tuttle. Four hundred and thirty-four ballots were issued to eligible voters with Mr. Zander receiving a majority of 270 votes to 164 for Mr. Tuttle.

M.L.A. Lou Hindman replaced Peter Lougheed, who telegraphed his regrets at being unable to attend. Mr. Hindman noted the attendance and said that similar enthusiasm was being shown at other meetings across the province.

P.C.'s he said, expect to field 75 candidates in the '75 ridings under redistribution. An election, he said, is still likely in June or August.

Mr. Hindman in his address stressed the decentralization theme and noted that provincial government agencies should have started the process some time ago. Why, he said, was an oil drilling school established in Edmonton rather than Drayton Valley? And why a fish hatchery in Calgary rather than one of the smaller mountain or foothills communities?

Speaking on behalf of Mr. Tuttle were his nominator, Mr. Ritchie Woods and seconder, Mr. John Hurley. Performing a similar duty for Mr. Zander were nominator, Mr. Dave Case and seconder, Mr. Matt Leake.

Both candidates were given 15 minute opportunities to express their campaign thoughts and both Charter members were introduced by Zone Chairman Fred Schipper and District Governor Andy Frazer was introduced by Deputy District Governor Alex Boychuk of Stony Plain.

District Governor Frazer, of the Edmonton Northgate Club, complimented the Drayton Valley Club on its 13th Anniversary in the 50th Anniversary year of Lionism in Canada.

Touching on the work of Lions

International, Mr. Frazer noted that close to a million members now work at Lionism in countries around the world. Mr. Frazer also urged the support by District 37B for Lion Virgil Moshansky of Vegreville who is a candidate for 3rd Vice President of Lions International.

President-elect of the Drayton Valley Club Bert Telford responded to the District Governor's address and presented him and Mrs. Frazer with a gift on behalf of the club.

COUNCIL BRIEFS

At a regular meeting of Town Council held Thursday, April 9th Mr. Wayne Gordon, Planner from the Edmonton Regional Planning Commission, summarized the intent and scope of the town's new zoning and planning legislation, Bylaw No. 449.

Mayor Johnson brought the Council up to date on the police enforcement picture. He pointed out that Supt. Prichett had advised that the R.C.M.P. would not consider the possibility of taking other policing forces under their command (using Canadian Security and Police Academy personnel under R.C.M.P. jurisdiction until a formal contract was signed, as had been suggested earlier this year.)

He noted that approval had been received from Ottawa for renovations to the present R.C.M.P. quarters.

Mr. Minion, Director of Canadian Security and Police Academy, was present and asked for clarification of the present situation regarding duties and responsibilities of personnel from the Academy now serving in the Drayton Valley Police Department.

He pointed out that the Academy was interested in gaining a commitment on the future needs of town policing requirements.

Subsequent to discussions with Mr. Minion and Chief Constable R. A. Doig, Council agreed on a policy to continue with the present police direction but passed a motion requesting Canadian Security and Police Academy to supply junior personnel to operate under the direction of Chief Constable Doig.

Report from the Legislature

By TONY COX

One big question which continues to puzzle politicians and political pundits alike, is whether Premier Harry Strom will call a general election this year.

As the third session of the 16th Alberta Legislature drew to a close some of the senior government MLA's were overheard to remark "I wonder if it will still be a 65 member House next year?" Under the re-distribution formula, it will consist of 75 members after the next election.

When the Speech from the Throne was read by Lieutenant Governor Dr. J. W. Grant MacEwan, Opposition Conservative party leader Peter Lougheed termed the legislation, a pre-election speech. He hasn't changed his mind.

Premier Strom has oft stated there is no reason to depart from tradition of holding an election every four years. If this holds true, that means 1971 at the earliest and possibly 1972 if the Social Credit government utilizes its full five year mandate. Although this is unlikely.

Compared to the lack-lustre document of last year, the Throne Speech clearly revealed that Premier Strom is responsive to public complaints about existing Socred programs.

The 1970 edition clearly indicated government concern for comprehensive, long range planning the changing quality of life in the province, the problems of urbanization and the development of human resources.

It included a re-writing of the School Act, the Labour Act, a revised medicare program and taxation relief for the property owner.

The session heralded Alberta's first billion dollar budget. While it contained no tax increases, the budget made provision to borrow $100 million, thus abandoning the province's long standing pay-as-you-go policy.

Education, which absorbed $404 million or 33% of the total spending, gave local school boards more autonomy, but required them to seek a plebiscite if supplementary spending requisitions exceeded certain levels.

Under the proposed flexibility factor fund, the government will make $20 million available to school boards, which could remove up to seven mills from the supplementary tax levy over a three year budget period.

To further assist the hard-pressed property owner, the four mill hospitalisation tax is to be eliminated this year although equalised assessment under the foundation program will be increased from 28 to 30 mills.

The session had a rather unusual beginning and for the first full week, it felt the unorthodox procedural methods adopted by the Tories.

They placed less emphasis on the question period to extract answers from the government and using a more aggressive role than previously witnessed, tabled 20 pieces of legislation.

"This is an indication to all Albertans", said party leader Lougheed, that the Tories are capable of governing this province.

Their bills included and Alberta Bill of Rights, stricter pollution control, consumer protection, nursing homes, landlords and tenants, wilderness areas, labour and municipal taxation.

The government later introduced its own legislation, some of which covered ground already outlined by the opposition. But for the Tories, it was merely a case of presenting part of their campaign platform for the next election as all their bills died on the order paper without reaching second reading.

On the other hand, the government introduced 119 bills, only one of which did not receive royal assent. That was Bill 80, which involved a co-ordination council on nursing.

The revised medicare program will see health insurance premiums drop by as much as $66, annually effective July 1st when the province increases its subsidies to people on low incomes.

The 1970 session witnessed the largest demonstration in the history of the Legislature as some 1,500 angry farmers protested against declining agricultural incomes. At one stage, they threatened to invade the legislative chamber as they sought provincial government recognition of the National Farmers Union as the voice of the farmer.

Other demonstrations, but this time outside the building, saw poultry producers complaining against low egg prices by handing out free eggs, while a group of welfare recipients, known as 'Humans on Welfare' protested against the present voucher system of social assistance.

1970 saw the introduction of a driver demerit system in Alberta, the elimination of compulsory vehicle inspection and the Courts being granted authorisation to impound a motor cycle for three months if its operator was convicted of careless driving.

Revisions to the Labour Act, one of the few pieces of legislation that drew a reaction outside the House, will broaden the strike-ending powers of the Labour Minister in emergency situations where "extreme privation and human suffering" are involved.

The government announced it was preparing a comprehensive submission to Ottawa on proposals contained in the White Paper on Tax Reform.

But Tory leader Lougheed was the only man to publicly state he was willing to meet with Finance Minister Benson opposing such proposals as the elimination of the lower tax rate on small businesses easing of natural resources development incentives and the introduction of a capital gains tax.

Several special legislative committee reports were tabled this session.

One suggested that farm residents should be subject to municipal property assessment and taxation. Another accused retail credit bureaus of wielding too much power over the individual and predicted that unless something was done soon, the question on invasion of privacy would be non-existent by the end 2000 simply because there wouldn't be any privacy left. The report failed to give any firm recommendations.

A third report urged compulsory auto insurance, combined with a no-fault claims benefit. It also suggested the adoption of a mandatory $35,000 liability coverage for all drivers; and the elimination of the present green card system.

To assist families earning less than $5,000 annually, the government plans mortgage rate subsidies and land rental purchase arrangements. It's all part of Ottawa's $200 million program to meet, what has been described, as the nation's number one problem.

Under the scheme, low income families may be able to purchase a three bedroom, semi-detached or town housing unit for as little as $500, down with monthly payments of less than $100.

Tenants have greater protection from landlords who are now required to give 90 day notice of any planned rent increases, and must give 24 hours notice to tenants before entering a rented accommodation.

Revisions to the former Game Act will prevent hunting within a one mile radius of a home, without first obtaining the occupant's consent. The new Wild life Act also re-defines what constitutes a loaded firearm. While it is still illegal to carry a gun with a shell in the breech or chamber, the requirement of unloading the magazine has been removed.

Legislation to promote integrated urban transportation for the eventual development of free-ways and rapid transit corridors, while protecting landowners whose property would be directly involved, was also tabled.

Alberta's fourth university, to be located at St. Albert was announced.

The Conservatives received a membership boost when the lone independent MLA, Clarence Copithorne (Banff-Cochrane) joined the Lougheed team giving the House a clear cut picture with 55 Socreds and 10 Tories.

Editorial Comment

More Support for Decentralization

We're happy to see another voice, that of the Alberta Chamber of Commerce, raised against population trends and their effect on rural-urban economic growth.

The chamber is one of several sponsors of a two-day seminar on the problem developing in Alberta today as the result of movement of people from rural Alberta to the urban centres.

Trends that the chamber sees evolving are: a decreasing rural population which will result in a decreased market for rural businesses; a depleting tax base for the financing of new schools, road improvements and the like; a closing down of social service facilities such as hospitals, schools, and government agencies due to lack of use; and a debt on these institutions which must be paid.

The urban centres, on the other hand, are faced with a tremendous influx of people who will require the facilities they have abandoned in the rural areas. This is likely to prove costly to the cities, placing them in a high debt position.

The problem is a grave one facing Alberta today. The fact that more groups and provincial leaders are recognizing and coming to grips with it casts a small ray of hope in an otherwise bleak future for rural Alberta.

Stupid Trick

We don't know what would prompt anyone to throw pennies on the ice during a skating performance, but unfortunately, it was done during the ice carnival here on two occasions.

Pennies were thrown out Friday evening and again Saturday forcing a break in the show to clear the ice of these very real hazards to young skaters. It isn't hard to imagine the type of fall that could result from a skater landing on a coin that embeds itself quickly into the ice. One such coin, cleanly sliced by a skate, was one of the many scraped from the ice.

Surely the persons responsible aren't eager to see a skater break an arm or leg -- so they must just not be thinking too clearly. Perhaps if they realized the danger of this practice they might refrain and possibly encourage others to do so -- let's hope that before another carnival rolls around they manage to get the message.

Investment Club Formed By Junior High Students

The Drayton Valley Junior High Grade 9 Social Studies class has begun an Investment Group to learn economics by practice rather than textbook means. From among the group of approximately 100 students, 12 have been selected to form a Board of Directors.

The executive positions of the board are Larry Hatcher, President; Hal Smith Vice President and Donna Kerber, Secretary-

Treasurer.

The foundation of initial investment has been established by the members who have personally put into the group anywhere from one to nine dollars, giving them a base of approximately $300.00.

The group has already formulated the following basic conditions for operations in the form of the following motions:

- * The company policy should be for the purpose of education in money management.

- * The company be dissolved between January 1st, 1973 and June 1st 1973.

- * A quorum of eight be necessary for a Board of Directors meeting.

- * That the investment group make an investment within the first forty days of each semester.

- * An inquiry about bonds, mutuals and other securities we might want to purchase. Some risk money will be put into the stock market to give excitement to this aspect of our economy.

- * The officers of the Board of Directors should be elected every year from within the Board or if one is found incompetent a vote of confidence can be asked for by a member of the Board.

- * The group have money raising campaigns to raise money for investment on behalf of the total group.

- * All investments will be put in trust in the names of Mr. Paul Bradley and Mr. W. E. Kerber.

- * The Board of Directors send a financial statement to the shareholders within three days of the following dates: November 15th, January 15th, April 15 and June 10th.

- * If one of the group should own over 5 percent of the group investment he should automatically become President if he so wishes and is a Drayton Valley High School student and the present President would move into the position of Past President.

- * A regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors at the discretion of the President.

- * A savings account to be opened immediately at the Royal Bank, Drayton Valley.

The constitution is still the major concern and effort of the group at present.

Safety Council Urges Pedal Pushers Club

"Children making the most of dry roads and warm weather can be counted on to mix their bicycles with automobile traffic in Drayton Valley this spring. Parents concerned about the safety hazard in this bike-auto mix can minimize the danger through the Pedal Pusher Clubs traffic safety program," says R. Paul Lawrence, General Manager of the Alberta Safety Council.

"The town of Drayton Valley in co-operation with the Rotary Club, was one of the more than twenty communities outside of Edmonton and Calgary that organized successful Pedal Pusher Club Programs last spring," Mr. Lawrence commented. "We are hopeful they, or some other community minded group will be able to continue this bicycle safety program in May or June, 1970," he said.

Last year, Drayton Valley had 200 Pedal Pusher Club members.

The Pedal Pusher Club program consists of seven meetings, usually held in a school ground or some other large flat protected area. Children bring their bicycles to the meeting, where they receive lessons in rules of the road, practice in bicycle riding to improve balance and skill, and encouragement to develop a healthy safety attitude toward bicycle riding first, and car driving later.

The Pedal Pusher Club instructors are all volunteers, usually the parents of the Pedal Pusher Club members. The Clubs are geared for elementary school age riders.

Stopping at a traffic light, I asked by four-year-old daughter if she knew what the colors of the light meant. "Yes," she replied confidently. "Red means stop. Green means go. Yellow means go a little faster."

Foster Parent Week Declared April 18 to 25

The week of April 18 to 25 has been declared Foster Parent Week in Alberta by Hon. R. A. Speaker, Alberta Minister of Social Development, to bring recognition to foster parents and the work they do.

Mr. Speaker noted there are nearly 3,000 foster homes caring for over 5,000 children who have come in the care of the Alberta Department of Social Development. These included newborn infants, family groups, teenagers, physically, mentally and emotionally handicapped and children of many racial backgrounds.

"During this week, I encourage you to reflect upon the work done by foster parents, with its difficulties and many rewards, and urge you to look into the possibility of becoming foster parents yourselves," Mr. Speaker said.

"To the foster parents: thank you most sincerely, on behalf of the people of Alberta and the many children you have looked after throughout the years."

Summerfallow Recommendations

Providing recommended cultural practices are followed, there is no reason that his year's increase in summerfallow acreage should increase soil drifting, says A. W. Goettel, head of the soils branch of the Alberta plant industry division.

Observation of fallowing practices in this province, he points out, show that many farmers work their fields more often than is necessary for satisfactory weed control. Each operation reduces the trash cover which is the only protection the soil has against water and wind erosion. The use of chemicals, in conjunction with cultural operations, helps to conserve valuable trash and frequently reduces the cost of weed growth, the severity of the infestation and weather conditions.

The objective of every cultural operation, says Mr. Goettel, should be to conserve moisture, prevent the weeds from going to seed and at the same time preserve as much trash cover as possible. Choice of implement is probably the most crucial factor here.

During each operation blade implements reduce trash cover by about 10 per cent, while a heavy duty cultivator with 12-18" sweeps reduces it by 20 per cent. Discers and one-ways are the worst of all. They destroy 40 to 50 per cent of the trash in an operation. In fact, in three operations with a discer, 85 per cent of the trash cover is destroyed.

Mr. Goettel recommends planting a cover crop on land that is being fallowed for the second consecutive year. However, to counteract the deterioration in the surface of the soil that takes place during the winter, the field should be cultivated to ridge and "clod" the surface before the crop is sown. Fallow land sown to a cover crop in the spring will qualify under the federal wheat inventory reduction program providing the crop is used for pasture, cut down or turned under before July 15th.

Cover crops sown on first year summerfallow should be planted in late July or early August. Their function is to protect the soil from eroding during the late fall, winter and following spring. Research has shown that cover crops planted in late July or early August have little effect on crop yields the next year. If a cover crop is not used, Mr. Goettel recommends leaving volunteer grain and weed growth in September and October to protect the soil.

Finally, he points out that not all former wheat land is suitable for fallowing. Many farmers in Alberta have fields that were either taken out of tame or native pasture to increase wheat acreages. If this land has produced low crop yields in the past, due to erosion or the coarse texture of the soil, (sandy loam), it should be the first to be sown to perennial forages.

GOVERNMENT SUPPORTED VETERINARY CLINIC TO OPEN AT FAIRVIEW

The new government supported veterinary clinic at Fairview in northern Alberta, could be the forerunner of similar clinics in other areas where there is a lack of veterinary services.

Dr. W. P. Brisbane, head of the communicable disease branch of the provincial veterinary services division, reports that the Fairview clinic is the first government supported clinic in Canada and that it was initiated as a pilot project to attract and maintain a veterinarian in the Peace River area. This new concept in veterinary medicine, he says, should provide an adequate service at a reasonable cost for the livestock industry in that region.

The Alberta cabinet approved the expenditure of $50,000 last year on a lease-purchase agreement for the capital cost of the clinic. This cost includes such permanent fixtures as pens, chutes, a large animal operating table, a sterilizer and limited small animal facilities.

The Peace River Livestock Co-operative offered to invest the money needed to build the clinic with a provision to recover the cost. They also agreed to construct the clinic according to specifications set out by the veterinary services division. Repayment by the Alberta government is to be on a monthly basis over a five-year period.

A board has now been set up to operate the clinic. It is composed of a representative from the veterinary services division, a representative from the Alberta Veterinary Medical Association, and seven members from the Peace River Livestock Co-operative and local stockmen.

The board's first duty was to find funds to pay the general operating expenses of the clinic. They achieved this by deducting a nominal fee on all animals using the clinic facilities.

In an area like the Peace River region where the livestock population is widely scattered, says Dr. Brisbane, a veterinarian working in a clinic can accomplish far more in a day than would be the case if all his work entailed farm calls. He can also do a better job because he has the facilities and equipment he needs at hand.

The election of officers has been postponed until the November meeting to comply with a change of date in our bylaws.

District Cattlemen Tour Breeding Establishments

On April 16th a bus load of 32 cattlemen from Mayerthorpe, Sangudo, Evansburg, Duffield and Drayton Valley areas went on a one-day excursion to view some of the livestock imported to Canada in recent years.

A tour of the C.D.A. Research Station at Lacombe showed a cross-section of the Simmental cattle. There were purebreds and cross-breeds representing all popular beef breeds.

A mid-afternoon visit at Western Breeders Service at Balzac showed bulls of Simmental, Charolais, Brown Swiss, Welsh-Black and the British breeds. Also a demonstration of the collection and processing of bull semen proved quite interesting.

After supper a tour was made to Prairie Breeders bull stud at Midnapore. All the popular beef breeds were represented here, but the two Limosin bulls were the feature attraction.

The Sangudo and Evansburg A.I. Units sponsored this tour. They considered the day a successful venture, since it enabled the stockmen to see live and in color these rare, but often talked about, cattle. This leaves them in a much better position to choose herd sires wisely.

The dialogue enroute would put a classical hen-party to shame. Much was gained from this exchange of ideas.

District Man Expresses Thanks for Red Cross Help

Two years ago Eleanor Pickup was driving to Edmonton on a wet snowy March morning when she happened to notice a curl of smoke rising in a field. Somehow she felt that there had been a house in the place from which the smoke rose, she turned at the next farm entrance and drove back to investigate.

When she walked into the farm yard she found Mr. Louis Tcherner sitting on a box feeling very dejected over losing all his belongings in the recent early morning fire. Since the gentleman had a place to stay that night, Eleanor left him with the promise that a Red Cross parcel of bedding would arrive shortly.

The gentleman was very appreciative of the aid given him by Red Cross, but because of his recent losses and not being employed at the time he was unable to help the Red Cross that year.

However two years later Mr. Tchner was true to his word, he remembered Red Cross by sending to Drayton Valley a money order for $40.00 to be added to our Drayton Valley Red Cross canvass.

Eleanor has done Red Cross disaster work for fifteen years in Drayton Valley and area. She has helped many families who have been very appreciative of the aid given by Red Cross, but it is indeed a heart warming experience to have someone like Mr. Tchner who is so appreciative that they never forgot the aid they once received.

Plans Going Ahead For Baseball Season

The season is almost here - committees are getting organized, players are throwing diamonds, are being fixed up and everyone has forgotten about hockey and is concentrating on baseball.

The Parkland Regional Recreation Council is going to look after the administration of the ball program this season and is requesting the support of all areas to make it a success.

To start the season off, two coaches clinics will be held on Saturday, May 9th in Stony Plain at the Arena and in Seba Beach in the school on Sunday, May 10th. Both clinics will start at 10:00 a.m. and run until 6:00 p.m.

There will be an Umpires Clinic held in Wabamun on May 16th and May 17th, commencing at 10:00 a.m. in either the Community Hall or the Fire Hall, which ever is available. Your attendance and participation in the total program is vital to its success. Help your community by becoming a coach, manger or an Umpire.

For these clinics to be held, a registration of 10 is required for each clinic. You can pick up your registration forms from the local community recreation board, or use the one placed in this paper.

POINT SYSTEM PRAISED BY SAFETY COUNCIL

Alberta Safety Council President Ralph D. Couper has commended the setting up of a demerit point system to regulate errant drivers as a tremendous step forward in traffic safety for this province. The system went into effect on April 1st.

"Driver license control is the essential keystone in any comprehensive traffic safety program" Mr. Couper declares. "The Alberta Safety Council welcomes the establishment of the point system, and we look forward to the rapid identification of problem drivers this will make possible."

The point system does not for the present affect the system of driver records kept by the Motor Vehicle Branch of the Department of Highways and Transport for all driver licence holders. These records will continue to be kept and added to as infractions occur.

However, officials make clear that no points will be assessed for any infractions which occurred before April 1, 1970. After that date, points will be charged against violators up to a total of 15, at which point the operator will lose his driving privileges for 30 days.

Cards containing an explanation of the point system are available from the Motor Vehicle Branch, or from the Alberta Safety Council.

"Another important part of any comprehensive traffic safety scheme," Mr. Couper continued, "is a re-education program for chronic offenders. When a person has been identified by a point system as a problem driver, there should be a school or clinic where he can be sent for help."

"Going hand in hand with the new demerit point system is the Traffic Clinic of the Alberta Safety Council," Mr. Couper said. "Our records over eight years show that most drivers can be helped by Traffic Clinic."

So far, the clinics operate only in Edmonton and Calgary, but the Safety Council is now in a position to double facilities in each city.

Drivers who now have a record of accidents and convictions are informed of the Traffic Clinic by the Driver Review Committee of the Provincial Government. These drivers are urged to attend the clinic and try to avoid future demerit points.

Mr. Couper points out that drivers may still be suspended on their records as established prior to and after April 1, 1970. "We are equipped to continue the work of the Traffic Clinic for those who are now suspended or who wish to avoid future suspension," Mr. Couper stated. "Traffic Clinic is free to those recommended by the Driver Review Committee or by a magistrate, through a grant from the Attorney General's Department of the Province."

SHOP COMMITTEE REPORT

The following report was submitted by the Shop Committee pursuant to a meeting held in the morning of April 13, 1970:-

Shop Foreman reported that, overhaul priority items with the exception of the Case tractor and a few items on the construction grader were completed.

The matter of the second 2U D8 tractor for disposal was considered and the Committee recommends that this machine be repaired including power shift.

The Committee recommends that consideration be given to rearranging equipment with the possibility of using the old 2U D8 (to be overhauled) as dozer "Cat" and the new D7 be used on scraper.

The Shop Foreman suggests the advisability of having a service man for the shop now that men are very often out of the shop on service work. He reports that maintenance graders will be brought in and prepared for summer maintenance.

Maclures to Leave Saturday

Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Maclure were town visitors on Monday of this week bidding farewell to friends prior to their departure for Africa.

The Maclures will leave by air from Calgary on Saturday for England where they will spend three weeks before leaving for Compalla, on the shore of Lake Victoria in Uganda.

Before returning to Drayton Valley they spent about three weeks at their summer home in the Gulf Islands of British Columbia and skiing in the Okanagan.

THE HOMEMAKER

POLLUTION AND DETERGENTS

Lately we all seem to be concerned about pollution. One sees articles in almost every magazine they pick up. Radio and T.V. also reveal concern.

In the past decade, the mounds of soap suds found in lakes and rivers were visible proof of pollution. As a result manufacturers are required by law to produce detergents that are biodegradable or chemically broken down within 48 hours of entering the sewage system.

However, phosphates still remain a pollutant. Phosphates are in most laundry detergents - they help keep dirt in suspension and prevent it from being redeposited on clothing during washing.

It is the phosphates in detergents which cause eutrophication (i.e. the accelerated growth of algae in lakes and rivers). When algae decay, it uses up the oxygen in the water and the water therefore cannot support animal life.

When a suitable substitute is found, legislation will inevitably be passed to ban excess phosphate in detergents and water softeners. The federal government has promised action to "phase out" phosphate content by 1972.

In the meantime, what can you do? 1. don't panic until something constructive can be done. 2. switch to a detergent with a lower phosphate content. 3. switch to a soap and add a water softener to the water. 4. install a mechanical water softener in your home which can efficiently remove the hardness of minerals to a point where soap alone can be used.

Feel free to contact this office by phone or mail to determine the phosphate content of various cleaning agents.

The Drayton Valley Junior High Drama Group presented their play "Listen Dad" last weekend in the Zone High School Drama Finals in Whitecourt. The adjudicator commented on the maturity of the group and encouraged them to stay together. Drayton Valley and Barrhead were the only Junior High Schools taking part for the experience benefits. Educationists Concerned With Mental Health

Alberta educationists "are becoming increasingly concerned" with mental health problems being experienced by elementary school children, says a department of education official.

Schools "are encountering an unprecedented number of very young students who are not in a position to benefit from instruction because of emotional problems," says Dr. L. W. Ferguson, supervisor of counselling and guidance for the department.

For this reason, the counselling and guidance branch is co-operating with the elementary education department and the educational psychology department of the University of Alberta Faculty of Education to sponsor the National Conference on Elementary Counselling at the Banff School of Fine Arts May 1st to 3rd.

The conference, expected to attract about 200 participants, will help the province's educational psychology departments to develop "a realistic training program" for elementary counselling specialists, Dr. Ferguson says.

"Since we are concerned that training programs have been developed largely in isolation of local interests and needs, we have invited educators at all levels to attend this conference and participate," he says.

Speakers will discuss such subjects as The Role of the Elementary School Counsellor, The Creative Elementary School Counsellor in the 1970s and Special Services and The Elementary School in the Decade Ahead.

Speakers will include Dr. George E. Hill, University of Ohio, Dr. Marjory Anderson, Oregon State Department of Education, Dr. Richard Usher, Colorado State College, Dr. Verne Faust, University of Miami, Florida, and Dr. Arthur Kratzman, University of Victoria.

SUB-MITS FROM THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Room 16, grade three, Mrs. Baker's room has added a gerbil to their interesting corner. This is a small desert rat, very clean and an interesting pet. Children in the room are taking turns caring for her (?) on weekends.

Plans are underway for a Display Day of children's work in May. Practice is beginning for a Track and Field Day to be held in June.

News is at a standstill this week with students and teachers concentrating on tests and report cards. Please feel free to come to your child's teacher about this, if necessary.

Cookie Day Set for May 2

May 2nd will be Girl Guide Cookie Day in Alberta.

Proceeds from the sale of cookies helps finance camping, arts and crafts and many other activities in this important citizenship program.

ALBERTA SCIENTISTS PROBE MYSTERIES OF RHIZOSPHERE

Surrounding and completely enclosing the roots of all plants is a zone referred to by plant biologists as the rhizosphere. Depending on what part of the root one may be considering, this rhizosphere varies, but essentially it is a closed system, a "mini" environment containing organisms that are quite different from those found in the rest of the soil.

Although plant biologists have long recognized that many functions vital to the plant's growth and welfare take place in the rhizosphere, the manner in which this control is achieved has always been one of Nature's closely guarded secrets. But now Dr. J. L. Neal and fellow researchers Dr. Ruby Larson and Dr. T. G. Atkinson, all of the federal research station at Lethbridge, believe they have found a way to control and utilize the rhizosphere to possibly reduce plant disease, speed growth, lower production costs and increase yields.

Dr. Neal, the first soil microbiologist ever posted to Lethbridge, claims that the rhizosphere is the region in which the real action takes place. He likens it to a biological sieve or screen through which everything going into the plant's root system must first pass. Once they enter the rhizosphere all nutritional compounds, chemical and organic fertilizers, pesticides and so on come under the influence or control of specific micro-organisms. These micro-organisms can accept, reject, alter, mutilate, tear apart, re-combine or render unavailable almost any element or compound applied to the soil.

What is it that gives the organisms in the rhizosphere such broad powers? While working on his Ph. D. at Oregon State University, Dr. Neal encountered evidence to suggest that the presence of antibiotic-producing organisms in the rhizosphere gave some plants resistance to root rot.

He feels that it was his good fortune to accept his present position at Lethbridge, because once there he learned of root rot research that had been done by Dr. Larson and Dr. Atkinson. Working as a team Dr. Larson, a cytogeneticist, and Dr. Atkinson, a plant pathologist, had succeeded in introducing root rot resistance in wheat by the chromosome substitution method.

If resistance to root rot could be introduced in this manner, why not attempt to control a whole range of rhizosphere microbial characteristics by the same method?

Proceeding on this course the research team found that they could indeed alter the rhizosphere micro-organisms in spring wheat by using chromosome substitutions. Thus, a method had been found to gain some control over the rhizosphere's functions.

While the team of Lethbridge scientists concede that they have only succeeded in scratching the surface, their work has opened up, for the first time, the exciting prospect of man being able to control the rhizosphere and the organisms which it contains. It indicates that scientists might one day be able to subtract those micro-organisms that adversely affect the plant or add those that are beneficial. Also, using methods like those perfected by Dr. Larson, it may be possible to introduce into the rhizosphere almost any antibiotic-producing organism or combination of organisms desired.

It further suggests that farmers in the future might be able to go shopping for specific seed with built-in genetic mechanisms or capabilities required for specific conditions or circumstances. Thus, man will have achieved even greater and more precise control of the techniques of crop production, Dr. Neal feels.

LIBRARY NEWS

If you are planning a holiday in one of Canada's mountain National Parks this summer you may find Robert Scharff's book helpful. It is written about Banff, Jasper, Glacier, Kootenay, Mount Revelstoke, Waterton and Yoho Parks. Useful information is given regarding camp sites, other accommodation, points of interest, animals, fishing etc. Maps are provided for each area.

Newly arrived books for the adult section include:

"Red River of the North & Other Poems of Manitoba" by Thomas Saunders. The book was written for the Manitoba Centennial and donated to our library by James Richardson and Sons.

"The Swift Runner" by Frank O'Rourke, a different type of western.

"Entrusted to My Care" by

Grant MacEwan shows this great Canadian's concern for some of the undesirable changes in our land with the waste of our natural resources.

By special request we have obtained a copy of "Nineteen Eighty-Four" by George Orwell.

Guides Enjoy Holiday Outings

Over the Easter Holidays several Guides went to Mrs. Tyler's house and sewed nightgowns for their sewing badges. Also a few Guides went on a hike to Mr. Hodgson's farm, two and a half miles from Drayton Valley. The Guides made animal foot prints from plaster of paris, played games, ate dinner outdoors and had a very enjoyable time.
